Activity sheet: Researching the people named on war memorials

On our 'Researching the people named on war memorials' information sheet (www.learnaboutwarmemorials.org/youth-groups/general/7-10) we told you what you can find out about people named on war memorials and where to find this information. This activity sheet gives you space to record what you have found out from your research.

Other information you have found out
Use the spaces below to write down the information you can piece together using the information you already know, or that you have found out from other sources. We have given you some suggestions for questions about the person that you might now be able to answer.
When were they born? (Look at the date they died and how old they were when that happened)
• Where did they live? (Have you found any more details about their address or where their family lived? Remember someone could be named on a war memorial but not live in the same town or village.)
Do you know anything about their family?
Do they have a known grave or were they recorded as missing?
Use this space to write a summary of all the information you have found out:
